
Bubble Gum, Bubble Gum...

Time for a party game! This group of friends with kooky nicknames are playing “Bubble gum, Bubble gum, in a dish” to determine who will get a delicious dessert for a prize.

Rules:

- Rebel Ruby counts.
- On each turn, Rebel Ruby chants “Bubble gum, bubble gum, in a dish, how many pie-ces do you wish?” while pointing to each person in the circle clockwise (she starts with herself on the first round, and with the person to the left of the loser in all other rounds.)
- The person she lands on then gives a number. Each person always uses their favorite number, which is listed next to their name. Rebel Ruby must count up to that number clockwise around the circle, and whoever she lands on is out. Remember, if someone is “out”, they are no longer counted in the circle.
- This continues until only one person is left in the game. When this happens, the dessert they win can found by rearranging the letters of their nickname.

Can you determine which dessert the winner gets?
