
Priming Herds

You can be Dr. Seuss! Each of these phrases contains a set of rhyming words. Use the clues in the sentence to fill in the blanks.

Example: I danced a mini jig when my parents bought me a guinea pig.

I went over to the grocery store produce section, where the vegetables were being spritzed with water, and found a pet snail in my _____.

What's a cornucopia, anyway? Some kind of crop horn? I'd rather have _____.

Check this out—I made a cool vine raft in this videogame called _____.

Oh man, my softball team didn't pick me to play in this inning. I'm going to go with the rest of the bench guys to get some _____.

Hey, are your fish okay? That puppy drank all the water out of that _____.

I was standing in the park, near the stump with the tree rings, but there was a swarm of yellow and black insects and I got some _____.

My older sister is giving me some vexed looks because I hid all of her _____.

I skipped breakfast today, but who'll fuss if I eat my lunch on the _____?

Is it vanilla? No it's not! Someone's spreading fake information about the _____.

Why do you like those quarter vending machines so much? I don't want to go to the dumb mall just so you can get a _____.

The only thing keeping happy in the gross bathtub with all the scrubber muck is my adorable _____.

I need some drink pairings for my dinner party appetizers. Do you know any better teas to go with this _____.

If you're looking to solve this puzzle and you're not the worst dancer, go with the _____.