For one day of the year, we set time aside to honor the dead and celebrate their lives.

A skeleton may not have much use for a barber ... but you sure do!

Enter your answers horizontally on the front and back of the grid (this might involve some sort of snipping) and cut it out. To trim off all that extra HAIR, first make the indicated folds in order so that each pair of images ends up touching, then cut out any visible squares (even half-visible) with the given letter, along with any layers behind them (like making a paper snowflake). It may help to make an additional diagonal fold so you can cut from the edge. Be sure to sweep up the clippings - not a hint, just clean up after yourself!
